

Nourish your Life with Moringa

A LITTLE STORY ABOUT US

India is known for its agriculture for more than 9000 years of continuous innovations.

The methods and techniques used by Indian farmers were essentially organic till the mid-twentieth century. The overuse of chemical fertilizers and pesticides in the entire world temporarily disrupted that tradition.

Now the whole world is turning towards organic food products and health systems based on traditional medicines, medicinal plants, and agrarian raw materials. There is a resurgence in the cultivation of organic food in India which is poised for a global green revolution excelling its own glorious Green Revolution of the 1960s. Organic Moringa is one of the streams of that mighty lifeline!

Shreyam is a key player as one of the biggest exporters of moringa oleifera from the biggest producers of the wonder plant - India

Quality Assurance

The cornerstone of our victory

Quality consciousness is hardwired into our processes and every commitment from us is supported by a strong strategy that scans and controls grade from end to end; from the choice of seeds best fitted to the special requirements of each farm, to prompt customer service and accurate delivery of every order.

Moringa production is from India. Shreeyam Organics adheres to all certification parameters and APEDA standards.

Our Quality Assurance division has diverged into four principal roles:

Client Assistance Lab The client assistance lab is accountable for servicing our customers – from handling client-specific specifications to holding whole traceability from raw materials to the finished good.

Laboratory The laboratory group is qualified to measure the physical, chemical, and microbiological parameters of all incoming raw material to provide the goodness and grade of the product. They also coordinate with other global and domestic laboratories for all needed supporting tests.

In-Process Quality Control The IPQC group pursues the physical activity of the incoming raw material to the production of finished goods and ensures that semi-finished goods check specific needs at every step of processing.

Food Safety Management The Food Safety Management team provides that Good Manufacturing Practices are being followed at all times. They also manage and observe necessary control points to ensure that the results meet all technical.
